Life wasn't meant to be easy or simple. We either suffer the pain of discipline or the consequence of regret. There must be a balance however between the liberating euphoria of giving in to our desires and maintaining control. Certainly, the easiest path is to deny ourselves, but the better option is to be the person in control of how and when to choose it.

Policies are considered the principles by which business, government and society operates. Policies are designed to adapt and change, and we should have faith in the human mind and spirit and consider this when formulating them. Context is vital and one should never hesitate to mould policies to adapt to human behaviours and ideals. Pride 365 promotes fairness that encompass the free thinking attributes of humans whilst not discarding necessary structure and guidance that policy provides.
